Going to Fort Flagler has been a long held tradition for the Senior Class of AAA. The weekend was filled with bonding, playing, and singing around a campfire. Friday night, Pastor Jay Coon spoke to the class with several classmates giving testimonies about how God was working in their lives. Saturday night, class election began with officer candidates giving speeches followed by the class voting. After elections, the games began. They headed down to bunkers to play sardines with glow in the dark necklaces. A great weekend filled with renewed friendships and lasting memories ended as the seniors headed back to Auburn.

4 Year Senior Trip

An excited group of Four-Year Seniors boarded the bus for a weekend getaway to Banks Lake, Washington. They traveled to Steamboat State Park where they enjoyed the incredible weather and spectacular view. Bonding and making lasting memories was the goal for the weekend. To get away from the stress of school, many took advantage of relaxing on the beach with friend. Wake-boarding, jet skiing, swimming, cliff jumping, boat riding, sand creations and soaking up the sun provided something for everyone. Bonding with God was a highlight of the weekend. Early birds got up early on Sabbath morning and took a hike up to Steamboat to watch the sunrise. They went to a little church in Grand Coulee and had the opportunity to do the church service. Nobody wanted the weekend to end. Four-year senior trip is one memory they will never forget.

A Child Is Born Journey To Bethlehem

Luke 2:1-7

So Joseph also went up from the town of Nazareth in Galilee to Judea, to Bethlehem the town of David...He went there to register with Mary, who was pledged to be married to him and was expecting a child. While they were there, the time came for the baby to be born, and she gave birth to her firstborn, a son. She wrapped him in cloths and placed him in a manger...

The History Club was started here at the academy about six years ago. Mr. Spano and I had an idea to create a club in which history topics and ideas could be shared with a more relaxed, less academic focus. The History Club does many types of activities, trying to vary them from on campus meetings to off campus excursions. In the past we have gone to visit several places in the Seattle and Tacoma areas. Several repeat trips include visits to the Washington State History Museum in Tacoma; the Museum of Flight at Boeing Field; the Klondike Museum and Underground Seattle; and the Museum of History and Industry in Seattle. A visit to the Future of Flight and Boeing Assembly Building in Everett has been a favorite over the years. This year we visited the newly opened and expanded American Car Museum in Tacoma much to the enjoyment of all who attended. Most of our on campus meetings are movie nights watching various historical themed feature films. History is so much more than dry facts and dates – it's vibrant and vital and relevant to us all. Come join the club, I promise there will not be any worksheets or quizzes.

Recording the Memories

I define AAA as...

Kardenya Falls...compassionate Alexis Carnduff...a blanket. We keep each other secure, we comfort each other and we spread warmth

Marika Miller...a place that helps form you into the person God made you to be

How do you define Auburn Adventist Academy? We could say it's a school, a campus, an organization, musical groups, sports teams, but none of these are complete definitions of Auburn Adventist Academy. 265 students, and 50 staff members are a part of defining AAA. Yet amongst all these people that put their life into AAA I doubt that you would find two with an identical definition. This year as AAA's Rainier Vista Yearbook Staff we chose to take a classic look at some of the things that define us as a school. Academics, music, sports, clubs, events and most importantly our spiritual focus, all contribute to the definition but ultimately it's up to you.

How do you define Auburn Adventist Academy?

Auburn Adventist Academy students entered a different classroom on Monday, October 15, when they stepped off campus to learn more about the community during a day of service. Along with AAA's students and staff, the Academy also involved seventh- and eighth-grade students from Buena Vista Seventh-day Adventist Elementary School in Auburn and Northwest Christian School in Puyallup. In all, more than 350 students and sponsors participated in service activities at 11 locations across the Auburn area. Service projects included places like new property in Auburn that is being cleared for park use and a Lea Hill community where fences were painted, trees planted, water drainage ditches dug and murals painted on community center walls. A large student group volunteered at the Auburn Food Bank. Students joined other volunteers in the process of receiving and distributing food to those in need. Jesus said He did not come to be served, but to serve. How can we do any less? Community is important and we were happy to show our Auburn community that we are here to help.

This year, the ASB team came up with a bombshell theme for the costume party-toys. We saw a variety of costumes on that fun-filled night. Raggedy Anne, Mr. Potato Head, GI Joe, Legos, Chess pieces, and a sock monkey are just a few examples of the creative costumes students wore to the party. ASB planned fun activities and good food for the evening. There was even a showing of the childhood favorite-Toy Story. Ultimately, the staff judges voted for the best costumes of the night. These included a Toy Soldier, Holiday Barbie, two Rubix cubes and a bag of Jelly Beans.

Leadership Conference

Team building trust falls on Sabbath afternoon

In October 18 of AAA's student leaders spent a weekend at Camp Mivoden with student leaders from across the North Pacific Union Conference. They made new friends, spent time in break out groups reflecting their leadership roles, and brainstormed with peers. The speaker for the weekend was Dr. Terry Johnsson. His stories of faith and perseverance were inspiring. The weekend concluded on Saturday night with a discussion on how to balance the busyness of our lives and make AAA a better place.

A Night in the 1920s

Every year, students long anticipate the always memorable banquet day, as images of dresses, dates, and hair flood through their heads. When that awaited day comes, parents flood into the girls dorm with their cameras and while the ladies always dress to impress, the boys give their best shot at being gentlemen. Whether you went with a date or a group of friends, it always proves to be a good time and although many were confused about what was going on that night, memories were made on the 1920's evening.

A favorite event of the student body is always the annual Christmas Party. The ASB team puts together a fun-filled event that gets students involved with the community. A group of underprivileged children are brought to the school where each child is greeted by a team of student sponsors. They have already purchased a gift for their child and participate in a bunch of activities with them. Everyone gets to enjoy cookie decorating, coloring, pin the nose on Rudolph and pictures with Santa. By the time the kids head home, gift in hand, they have made some new friends at Auburn.

Spirit Week 2013

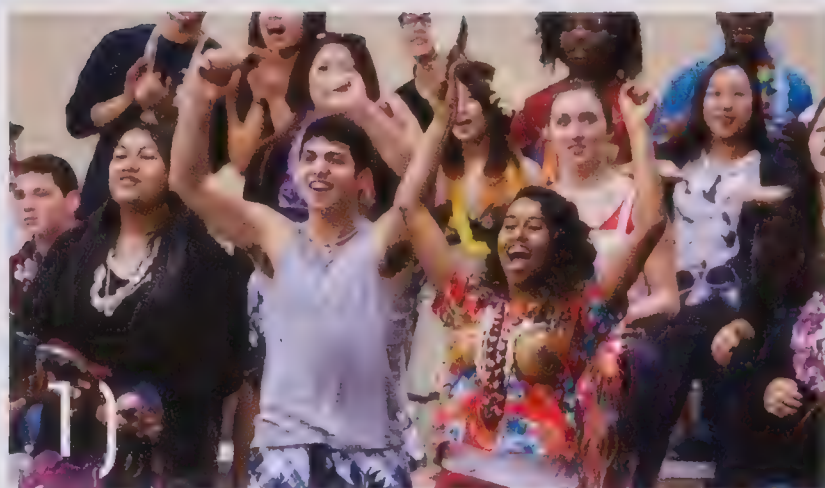

"We've got spirit yes we do, we've got spirit how bout you!!?" This chant rings through the AAA gym annually during Spirit Week. Each class has a chance to show their dedication and love for their school by dressing in the theme of the day and by participating in games arranged by ASB. The daily themes this year all had to do with "salad," which was the overall theme focus. The days were named for various salad dressings such as: Bleu cheese (color day), Ranch (western day), Thousand Island (Tropical day), Cesar (Roman day) and finally, House (AAA school spirit day). Scores were kept for each class for competition and participation and by the end of the week the senior class had won by a landslide. In second place came the freshman, with a narrow victory over the sophomores. Juniors finished in last place, but each class showed a lot of school and class spirit.

100! DAYS

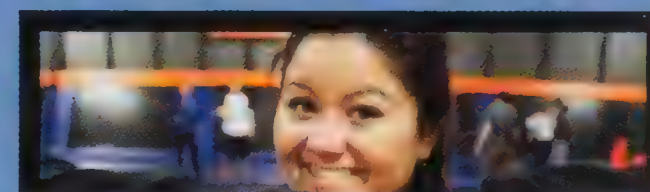

Cody Angevine

Caleb Riston

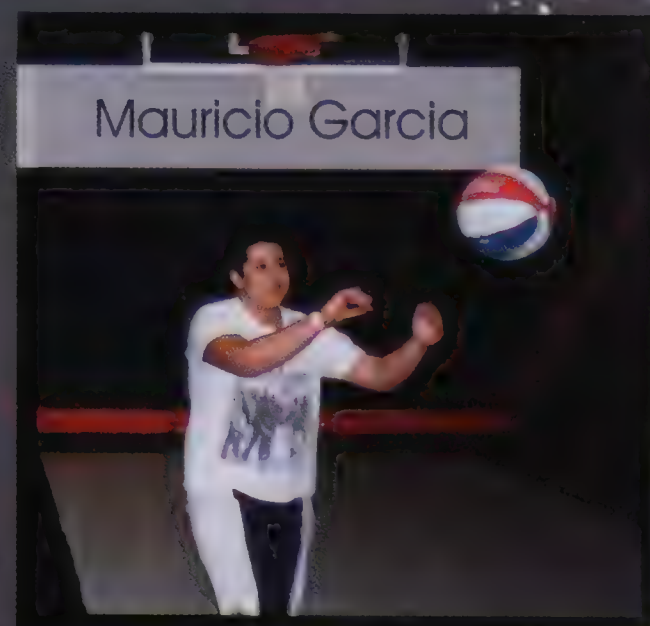

February 22, 2013 marked a major milestone for the class of 2013—100 days until graduation! The senior officers transformed the hallway with black lights, balloons and glittering decorations. In the afternoon we all headed off to Trampoline Nation in Federal Way where our classmates showed off their acrobatic skills. The celebrations concluded with a stop at Menchies frozen yogurt to fill up on some sweet treats--and now the countdown to graduation begins!

Sarah Joy Anderson

"Sarah" – because it means princess, and your father is King of Kings. You sealed your relationship with Him the day you gave your heart to Him at baptism. We could not have been more proud of you, and we are so thrilled that you have chosen Jesus!

"Joy" – because that is what you have brought us every day since you came into this world two months early at 4 pounds. You could not wait to be with your family, and we treasure every moment we spend with you. When you learned to walk, you looked like a little monkey and you loved bananas. That's how you earned the nickname "Monkey".

Every stuffed animal ever made in the shape of a dog, is on your bed. Maybe that is where your love for all God's creatures began, culminating in your love for the best dog ever, Luckey.

Somewhere between the stuffed animals and all the homework, you grew up before our very eyes. All too soon we will have to figure out how to let you go to fly on your own.

You always give 100 percent in all that you do. Your passion for life and your compassion for others will take you far in this life, and in the life to come.

Your loyalty to God and your friends is an inspiration to us. Your whole life has been a lesson in grace and love. Jesus shines in you and through you to everyone around you.

We have always claimed to be your biggest fans, but you have a far greater fan on the sidelines cheering your every move. Jesus is watching, waiting, and applauding every step you take toward Him in this race that is life. Fix your gaze on Him, and the finish line He is cheering you toward. There is greatness in you. He placed it there. In all your decisions, submit to Him and He will use that greatness to call His children home. We love you Sarah. And we are so proud of all that you have accomplished. But mostly, we delight in the wonderful child of God that you have become.

With all our love, Mom and Dad (HKS)

you
